

Lions, Redskins and Maya...

RECENTLY an email dropped into the Powerplay inbox from Steven Skippen, a Lee Valley Lions supporter.

"I have supported the Lee Valley Lions since their formation in 1984.

My daughter was diagnosed with a brain tumor in July last year and when the club found out they have treated her like an angel. She recently presented the Man of the Match awards at the Lee Valley Lions versus Streatham Redskins game and the team signed a card and brought her loads of presents. "The reason that I am writing is that this team are a small struggling side who have just been reformed yet they can do this for someone. I want to give them something back and was wondering if you could do a small article on this event. It would make their season if they could be mentioned in such a well known and established ice hockey institution like Powerplay.

"My daughter's name is Maya Perrin-Skippen and she is six years old she is fighting this illness to her great accolade. Her mother Natasha Perrin and I thought that it would be worth a try to contact you." Concluded Steven
